With over 500 students at Covenant, there were over 500 perspectives of Covenant — all on one small campus. We had students from around the world: Japan, Korea, India, Ethiopia, Uganda, England, Peru, Honduras, Canada, Oregon, Texas, Maine, Lookout Mountain . . . Each of us had our likes and dislikes concerning Covenant. While we held some values in common, we often disagreed on others. Never completely at rest, the Wittenburg Door witnessed some of these disputes. The year wasn't quiet. The year wasn't perfect, either.

For all of our differences and faults as the Covenant College community, we could still celebrate the fact that we were one body of believers striving to worship the Lord through our service to Him. We were at various stages in our personal development. Some of us were still babes or toddlers while others of us were almost grey in Christian maturity. Admittedly, others of us seemed to be stunted in growth or even shrinking. But our hope was in our belief that whatever we did, we tried to do it for Christ's glory. That is, we recognized, though at different levels of understanding, that whether we ate, studied or "lobbied", our lives were meant to be in obedience to Him that He might be praised.

Our values, attitudes, goals and backgrounds were all different this year as every year. But our unity in our purpose and our identity in our Lord brought us together as one body defining us as a small but significant part of the "whole-world" concept of Christ's Kingdom. In this we demonstrated that unity which is peculiar to Christianity.

We ought to continue to encourage, support and correct each other in our development as individuals and as a group. For we are a redeemed people being sanctified. We are far from being a "spotless" people, community, or institution, but we do have the reassuring hope that one day we will be perfected in our worship of the Creator. From this we can derive our strength and our joy. As Christians, we can celebrate so His honor may be seen.

R

So His Honor

For it is my deep desire
And my hope is eagerly
That I not be put away to shame at all
But that with perfect boldness
Just as I've been trying to do
So his honor may be seen in my body
So his honor may remain in my body
So his honor may be seen
If I live or if I die
I may even have to die
So his honor may be seen in me.

For to me to live is Jesus Christ
And to die would be so much better.

From administration, faculty and staff to classmen (upper, under, and eternal), we represented a grand variety of personalities, relationships and values. Though not perfectly, together we continued Covenant College. Here we are formally

BEYOND THE BOOKS

Equally or unequally, our time was divided between studying, exam-cramming, "lob-by-loafing", throwing hall parties, pulling campus-wide pranks, . . .

Planned or spontaneous, our entertainment continued our education as people. Here is some of what we did in our "social studies".

WITH SPIRIT

All of our time wasn't spent studying, eating and talking. Throughout the year we watched as some of us played intercollegiate sports. But we all got a chance to show our skill (or lack of it!) when intramural round-robins were organized. This time we're seen as athletes . . .
